Concordia University

Legal Studies and Public Policy

Concordia University offers an inter-disciplinary major and minor in Legal Studies and Public Policy (LSPP). Grounded in the liberal arts, LSPP students actively engage in the analysis and discussion of legal, ethical, and public policy concerns at the national and global levels and develop practical and strategic methods of thinking and problem-solving. This course of study is an ideal fit for students who plan to attend law school after graduation and/or pursue careers in government, policy making, legislation, politics, international law and human rights, community development, public administration, or business.
